

EHS & SUSTAINABILITY MANAGEMENT FORUM

2018 | OCTOBER 23-26 | LOUISVILLE, KY

Welcome to the Forum

Dear Colleagues:

Welcome to the 26th annual NAEM EHS&S Forum! On behalf of the Forum Planning Committee I invite you to do a few things to make this the best investment you have made in yourself and your EHS&S colleagues this year:

Be present: In our daily lives, we often juggle multiple priorities as we rush to get through the day. The Forum offers so much highly relevant content that I hope each of us can create the space to be fully present while we are here together. The next two days will only happen once.

Be engaged: One of the hallmarks of NAEM is the meaningful conversations. The Forum, and the EHS&S community we belong to, stems from our willingness to share stories – of what works, what doesn't work, what is most pressing today and what issues are emerging for tomorrow. Listen to these stories. Share your own stories.

Be open: The Forum is a chance for you to hear a variety of perspectives and to learn how others have solved the problems they encountered. I hope we can all open our minds to new approaches and new experiences – we never know where the next great idea will come from.

Last year was the Forum's silver anniversary, so we are building on a rich legacy. Connect with old friends and make new ones. Take every opportunity to listen to what your EHS&S peers have to say. Let's all make this a fantastic start of a new era!

Sincerely,

David Williams
Environment and Sustainability Director, Teva Pharmaceuticals
and NAEM Forum Program Chair

Unlocking the Opportunities of Skillful Communication

More than ever, EHS and sustainability leaders rely on their interpersonal skills to achieve their work objectives, so it is important we are prepared to handle situations and people that can set us off and undermine our effectiveness. Identifying and defusing our emotional triggers is the foundation for skillful communication in crucial moments of confrontation, persuasion, influence, and accountability. Through this engaging and interactive keynote, attendees will gain strategies for how to hold boundaries, engage in confrontation in a productive way and give useful advice. They will leave the session better able to manage difficult people with skill and composure.

Emerging Issues for Corporate EHS & Sustainability Management: What's Next, What's Hype, What's Keeping You Awake at Night

In just a decade, corporate EHS & sustainability has transformed decision-making, business culture and even how companies think about their very reason for being. So what's next on this ever-shifting horizon? This dynamic panel of experts and influencers will discuss emerging sustainable business practices and share what they see as the issues that will have the biggest impact on how EHS&S leaders work, collaborate and engage with the full ecosystem of stakeholders. You'll walk away with a glimpse of what's possible that will help you steer your programs toward a future you can rally your business around.

11:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Day of Service Portland Neighborhood

NAEM will be working with Louisville Grows to plant 40 trees in the Portland Neighborhood. Louisville Grows is a non-profit working to increase the tree canopy of Louisville by planting trees on private property. Through their successful efforts to date they have planted over 2,500 trees in environmentally damaged neighborhoods of Louisville. These trees, which are 10 to 18 feet tall when planted, provide a number of benefits to the residents of these neighborhoods by increasing air quality, lowering urban heating, providing shade and lowering cooling bills, soaking up stormwater lessening the impacts of severe rains, and sequestering carbon from the atmosphere. Transportation and lunch will be provided. The project is happening rain or shine, so dress for the weather and be ready to get dirty! Bus leaves hotel at 11:30 a.m. Lunch is included (locally baked bread and soup). Open to everyone. Cost: $15.00

Session 17: Leveraging Data Analytics & Visualization for Decision Making Salon 7-8

From dashboards to infographics, this session will examine how peers collected, analyzed and shared data in visual formats. It will highlight decisions and outcomes that speakers were able to attain using data visualization. Attendees will come away with an understanding of how to implement data visualization efforts even if they have limited resources, as well as an awareness of more sophisticated global tools.

Speakers:

- J.J. DeGiovanni, Managing Director; Corporate Quality, Safety, Regulatory and Data; United Airlines Inc.
- Emily Freeman, EMS Program Administrator; Denver Dept. of Public Health & Environment; City & County of Denver
- Kelsey Klucas, Advanced Environmental Engineer; 3M
- Jared Pasparage, Data Visualization Lead; United Airlines Inc.

Moderators:

- Christine Kurtz, Environmental Regulatory Assurance Manager; 3M

Session 18: Skills for Mindfulness, Healthier, Happier Living and Working Filly-Thoroughbred

Acknowledging the measurable productivity gains that a safe, healthy and focused workforce can make, this session will focus on some simple things people can do to relieve stress, quiet that voice in their head to become calmer, and listen more intently, (e.g., meditation and mindfulness). In addition to personal gains, this session will also tie these techniques to business outcomes, improved work environments and improving EHS&S leadership skills.

Speaker:

- Kate Kerr, Chief Attention Officer; Wake Up Kate
- Ron Roberts, LCSW, Optum Global EAP/Work Life/Wellbeing Strategy and Clinical Director; Johnson & Johnson
- Linda Yoo, Head of Global Mental Wellbeing & Workplace Effectiveness; Johnson & Johnson

Moderator:

- Paul Robbertz, Senior Director, Environmental Health and Safety; Danone North America

Session 19: How Do You REALLY Develop a Science-Based Target? Rose

Get practical steps and considerations from EHS&S leaders tasked with implementing a Science Based Target (SBT) for their company. Speakers will share lessons learned from their efforts to set an SBT and offer reflections on what has worked well and what to avoid on both the technical and communications fronts.

Speakers:

- Larry Deeney, Senior Technical Lead, Global Environment; General Mills Inc.
- Dylan Siegler, Sustainability Specialist & Sustainable Energy Advisor; NRG Energy Inc.

Moderator:

- Fawn Bergen, Global Sustainability Program Manager; Intel Corp.

Thursday, October 25

Session 20: Emergency Preparedness and Disaster Recovery: What Did and Didn't Work in 2017 Salon 9-10

Based on recent stress testing, come hear from peers at companies who had to put their BCP and disaster recovery plans into action. In a candid peer-to-peer discussion, hear from companies impacted by flooding, mudslides, fires and hurricanes across the US in recent months. Speakers will share the parts of their plans that were most successful and what elements they missed or are rethinking. Questions will explore: how well did plans hold up when put into action? What have companies learned during recent events about being adaptable and effective?

Speakers:

- Kenneth Carino Maldonado, EHS Director Aerospace Facility, Puerto Rico; United Technologies Corp.
- Tim Dunn, Director of Environmental Affairs; Best Buy Co. Inc.
- Evermary Hickey, Director Emergency Preparedness and Response; The Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Moderator:

- Steve Nalefski, Vice President, General Manager, Environmental Services; Burns & McDonnell

12:15 - 2:00 p.m. Lunch and NAEM Excellence Awards Ceremony Kentucky Ballroom

The NAEM Excellence Awards program recognizes and elevates leaders in the corporate Environmental, Health & Safety and/or Sustainability (EHS&S) community as well as showcases best practices of EHS&S management in corporations. This year NAEM will present one Lifetime Achievement Award and six NexGen Leaders Awards.

The Lifetime Achievement Award is bestowed on an EHS&S leader whose vision and commitment has positively shaped the fields of environment, health & safety, and/or sustainability within a corporate management role.

Presented by:

Sandra Nessing, President, NAEM Board of Directors

NexGen Leaders Awards are bestowed on rising EHS&S managers who possess the talent and skills required for the next generation of EHS&S industry leadership.

With support from: AECOM

Presented by:

Sandra Nessing, President, NAEM Board of Directors with support from Al Hannum, Executive Vice President Environment; AECOM

2:00 - 3:30 p.m. Concurrent Sessions

Session 21: Strategies to Effectively Manage EHS&S During M&A Bluegrass

Is your company facing major change as a result of a merger, acquisition, divestiture or spin-off? This session will share lessons learned, strategies and tactics for successfully managing EHS&S when these types of significant changes are happening. Learn about effective on-boarding and off-board of EHS&S personnel, knowledge transfer, training new personnel and other key aspects that are critical during times of transition.

Speakers:

- Perry D. Hawkins, Corporate Director Environmental, Health, & Safety; CIRCOR International Inc.
- Jason Johantges, Director Environmental, Health and Safety; The Scotts Miracle-Gro Co.
- Ann McDonald, Environmental Affairs Manager; Coca Cola Enterprises

Moderator:

- Ana Fernandez, Senior Director Health Safety Environment and Compliance; TBC Corp.

Session 22: How Is Your EHS&S Data Being Used By Investors? Filly-Thoroughbred

As companies disclose more and more EHS&S information and data via platforms like GRI, CDP or directly to ESG firms, how is it being used? In particular how are external stakeholders aggregating, manipulating, and summarizing your data and what if anything can you do about it? As EHS&S data becomes more front and center for investors, how are they looking at your data? This session will focus on what EHS&S leaders who participate in external reporting need to know to ensure their data is complete and being used to represent them in an accurate light.

Speakers:

- Robert Dornau, Director Sustainability Service; RobecoSAM
- Victoria Emerick, Director, Global Environmental, Safety and Sustainability; Bristol-Myers Squibb
- Bob Huber, Equity Markets Product Specialist; Bloomberg LP
- Stella Kenway, Senior ESG Advisor; RepRisk AG

Moderator:

- Donna Laviolette, Manager of Sustainability; Xylem Inc.

Session 23: Leadership in Action Salon 7-8

Join us for a lively panel discussion featuring NAEM's NexGen EHS&S Leadership Award winners as they share insights about their paths to leadership, what motivates them, and what they value most when it comes to employers and career opportunities. This is a must-attend session for senior executives seeking to retain and engage the next generation of EHS&S leadership, and for emerging leaders hoping to excel in their organizations.

Panelists to be announced during the Thursday Awards Luncheon.

Moderator:

- Deborah Briggs, Vice President EHS, Security and Facilities; Polaris Industries Inc.

Session 24: Corporate Water Stewardship: Goals, Trends and How to Account for Benefits Rose

Many areas of the world are facing increasing water scarcity in the coming years and water stewardship efforts are more critical than ever. Join speakers as they discuss projects that are aimed at improving the resilience of natural ecosystems and environmental water supply and learn about corporate water conservation and replenishment initiatives. Speakers will also share a methodology for accounting for water that is replenished.

Speakers:

- Fawn Bergen, Global Sustainability Program Manager; Intel Corp.
- Donald Clark, Program Manager; BioMarin Pharmaceutical Inc.
- Paul Reig, Senior Manager, Aqueduct And Corporate Engagement; The World Resources Institute (WRI)

Moderator:

- Amy Martinez, Operations Manager: APTIM

Session 25: Achieving Health and Safety Results Using Human Error Management Salon 9-10

Human error is accountable for a great deal of errors in industry. They cost money, impact schedule, destroy hardware, and may cost lives. They can happen with all the preventative measures in place or the best trained employees. These errors can be minimized and managed when we have the "right" environment. Human error management (HEM) is about a culture that empowers, communicates, and supports all employees around HEM. Come learn more about this cutting-edge approach to safety and steps you take to move your organization in this direction.

Speakers:

- Laurie Stupak, Director, Mission & Process Analytics; Ball Aerospace
- Kyle Myers, Director, Risk & Safety; CyrusOne Inc.

Moderator:

- Michael Miller, Vice President, Environmental Sustainability, Risk, and Safety; Advance Auto Parts Inc.

3:30 - 3:45 p.m. Afternoon Break Marriott Ballroom Foyer

Thursday, October 25

3:45 - 5:15 p.m. Unlocking the Opportunities of Skillful Communication Kentucky Ballroom

More than ever, EHS and sustainability leaders rely on their interpersonal skills to achieve their work objectives, so it is important we are prepared to handle situations and people that can set us off and undermine our effectiveness. Identifying and defusing our emotional triggers is the foundation for skillful communication in crucial moments of confrontation, persuasion, influence, and accountability. Through this engaging and interactive keynote, attendees will gain strategies for how to hold boundaries, engage in confrontation in a productive way and give useful advice. They will leave the session better able to manage difficult people with skill and composure.

Keynote by:

- Dr. Steve Mortenson, Associate Professor; University of Delaware

5:15 - 5:30 p.m. Closing Remarks Kentucky Ballroom

- Virginia Hoekenga, Deputy Director; NAEM
- David Williams, Environment and Sustainability Director; Teva Pharmaceuticals

6:30 - 10:00 p.m. Dinner and Networking Event Belle of Louisville Riverboat

Tickets are $95 per person and are available at the registration desk. Enjoy dinner, dancing and networking aboard the historic Belle of Louisville Riverboat. Open to all.

Friday, October 26

8:30 - 9:45 a.m. Grab and Go Pastries and Coffee Rose Foyer

If you are joining a Friday morning session, we will have pastries and coffee available to take with you. This is included in conference registration.

8:30 - 11:45 a.m. Women's Leadership Networking Breakfast, Keynote & Workshop - Move Up the Corporate Ladder & Sharpen Your Leadership Skills Bluegrass 1-2

Keynote by:

- Jennifer Marvin, Project Engineer, Environment, Health and Safety; Boeing Co.

Workshop: Hear from two women in EHS about the different pathways they have taken to leadership positions, including the challenges they have faced and the opportunities they seized. Learn about skillsets that will help you move from doer to leader, including what it takes to move up to executive management and be on a Board of Directors. Be prepared to discuss techniques that have worked and ones to potentially shy away from, with a focus on how to align yourself with other leaders who will help you most. Cost: $55 Buy your ticket at the registration desk. Open to all.

Workshop Speakers:

- Meghan Krishnappa, Compliance & Permitting Service Line Director; Brown and Caldwell Inc.
- Sharon Stecker, Senior Vice President for the Private Sector Enterprise; Brown and Caldwell Inc.

Sponsored by:

9:45 - 11:30 a.m. Old Forester Bourbon Distillery Tour Offsite

Come along as we tour the recently renovated site of America's first bottled bourbon. We'll learn about the full distilling process, and hear from an EHS professional who manages the operations. We'll conclude with tastings and light fare.

There will be a tour of 20 people at 10:00 a.m. and another tour of 20 people at 10:15 .am. The distillery is located just a few blocks from the hotel, so we will walk there 15 minutes in advance of the tour time. Bring an ID to prove you are at least 21 years old and wear comfortable shoes. Cost: $16 Buy your ticket at the registration desk (limited to 40 people). Open to all.

12:00 p.m. Conference Adjourns
